

GLOBAL INVESTOR STUDY

Insights into your firm—from a client's point of view

As your firm grows and evolves, knowing how your clients feel and what they value most is more important than ever.

The Global Investor Study helps you gather direct feedback on how your firm can deliver a better client experience and use the insights gained to better identify the clients you most want to replicate.

You can gain deeper insights into your clients' views on a range of issues, including:

- ▶ What they want in an advisory relationship
- ▶ How they measure your value
- ▶ Their overall satisfaction with your business and advisor attributes
- ▶ Why some clients refer and others do not

Benefits

Participation in the study can help advisory firms:

- ▶ Evaluate their value offering from their clients' viewpoint
- ▶ Identify ways to improve service efficiency
- ▶ Gauge client expectations in the current financial and market environment
- ▶ Assess client willingness to refer, as indicated by their Net Promoter Score (NPS)
- ▶ Discover areas of opportunity and potential risk
- ▶ Use the insights gained to develop a target client profile for their business development strategy

Study Content

This customizable client feedback survey begins with a set of standard demographics questions, then allows for a selection of questions from the following categories. All responses are completely anonymous.

Demographics: Though not required to answer, all clients are asked demographics questions, including their age, gender, asset level, employment status, and more.

Value and Services: These questions help advisors get a closer look into what really matters to their clients and how they have benefited from their received services.

Client Engagement and Interaction: How often are you meeting with your clients? Does that align with what they want or need? What is their preferred method to meet or communicate? Utilize these questions to find out.

Investments: These questions remain high level, capturing attitudes toward investing, rather than opinions on investment vehicles.

Referrals: Focusing on organic growth? The questions in this section target advisor introductions and referrals.

How It Works

The Global Investor Study is executed through a secure online questionnaire. All firms working directly with Dimensional are invited to participate and can do so at any point during the year.
